

Krithika Ramesh and Steve Chesters appointed WMACC Co-Chairs

The West Midlands Advanced Construction Cluster (WMACC) is pleased to welcome Krithika Ramesh and Steve Chesters as Co-Chairs, bringing extensive industry experience and a shared commitment to strengthening collaboration across the region.

Their appointments will support WMACC as it continues to bring together businesses, industry, academia and the public sector to address shared challenges, unlock opportunities and support growth across the West Midlands construction sector.

Krithika and Steve will work closely with WMACC's Advisory Board, members and partners to help shape the cluster's priorities and ensure its activity remains focused on the needs of industry.

A key part of their role will be supporting stronger connections across the regional construction ecosystem, encouraging greater collaboration and helping businesses engage with opportunities around innovation, skills, procurement, sustainability and growth.

Their appointment comes at an important stage in WMACC's development, as the cluster builds on its early momentum and moves forward with a growing programme of activity designed to deliver practical value for businesses across the West Midlands.
